FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

PGA and LPGA Golfers Help Raise Funds for Seniors in the Greater Philadelphia Region
Register NOW to play with Senior PGA golfer Jay Sigel and LPGA Futures Tour player, Stephanie George

Southampton, Pa., August 25, 2008 – On Monday, September 8, Jay Sigel from the Senior PGA Tour and Stephanie George from the LPGA Futures Tour will be playing alongside local golfers in the third annual Wesley Enhanced Living Foundation Golf Classic at the Huntingdon Valley Country Club.

The Golf Classic is a chance to enjoy a glorious day of golf during the best part of the season on an historic course, get to know two of the game's major players and contribute to the well-being of seniors in the Greater Philadelphia region. The Wesley Enhanced Living Foundation advances the Wesley Enhanced Living continuing care retirement communities' vision and mission through philanthropy.

Jay Sigel and Stephanie George are returning to play in the Wesley Enhanced Living Foundation Golf Classic after participating in the tournament for the past two years.

"I am thrilled to be returning to play in the Golf Classic," said Jay Sigel. "Not only does the Huntingdon Valley Country Club provide a wonderful course to play on, but I am passionate about the Wesley Enhanced Living Foundation and their mission to improve the lives of seniors."

The Wesley Enhanced Living Foundation Golf Classic features 27 challenging holes on three different courses. The golf tournament features a lunch, a grand cocktail party and an auction. The auction will include a rare Championship Flag autographed by Tiger Woods.

Registration for the Wesley Enhanced Living Foundation Golf Classic is open now through August 30. Spots are filling up fast, but there is still time to sign-up. Details regarding registration, and information about sponsorships opportunities, are available at www.wel.org or by calling 215-354-3193.

All proceeds from the Wesley Enhanced Living Foundation Golf Classic benefit older adults who live in Wesley Enhanced Living retirement communities throughout the Greater Philadelphia region. The Wesley Enhanced Living Foundation provides in excess of $1 million of charity care per year for seniors who need it the most.
